Annual Chorus-Orchestra Program Features Works of BYU Composers

Works of Dr. Leon Dallin and Prof. Crawford Gates, Brigham Young University music staff members, will take the spotlight Sunday and Monday when the combined concert chorus and a cappella choir join with the BYU Symphony orchestra in the Joseph Smith auditorium at 8:15 p.m. for their annual concert.

The concert, which is free to the public, is one of the most outstanding events in the music department's annual schedule, according to Lawrence W. Sardoni, acting chairman of the music department and symphony orchestra conductor.

The program will feature Dr. Dallin's "Songs of Praise," written with biblical text for full orchestra and mixed chorus with alto and tenor solos, and Prof. Gates' "Choral Movement, Joy," a composition for chorus and orchestra which has for its text a poem of the same name by Jon Beck Shank.

A 400-voice chorus and an 85-piece orchestra will participate. Each composer has been invited to guest-conduct his own compositions.

Dr. Dallin's work was written in 1948 while he was a member of the music faculty at the University of Southern California. Prof. Gates' number was also written in 1948 as a requirement for a master's degree at BYU. The poem by Mr. Shank, a graduate student at BYU, is taken from a volume of verse published by Alfred Knopf.

The symphony orchestra, concert chorus, and a cappella choir are well known throughout the west for the high standard of music they produce. A tour of neighboring states is made each year by one of the groups.

The combined choruses are frequently called to sing in General Conferences of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints in Salt Lake City.

Out-of-State Debate Trip Awaits J. V. Champions

Richard Devey and Sharon Berrett will meet Earl McBride and Lloyd Gerber tonight in the finals of the junior varsity debate tournament being held on campus.

These top teams will debate in the finals tonight at 6 in room 260 of the Science building. Everyone is welcome to come and listen to the round.

Three judges for the final meet will be: Sherman Christensen, Provo attorney; Clyde Sandgren, Provo attorney; and Vron Nichols, manager of the First Security bank (Provo). Members of the BYU faculty judged all previous rounds.

Trophy Awarded

The award to the winning team will be a trophy and a trip with the varsity squad to their first out-of-state meet in February. Besides the award for the best team, there will also be an individual award given by Tau Kappa Alpha, honorary debating fraternity, to the speaker receiving the most points during the tournament. These points must be won in debate and also in either extemporaneous or impromptu speaking.

Presentation Personnel

President Ernest L. Wilkinson will present the first place trophy to the winning debate team and Dr. Alonzo J. Morley, district governor of Tau Kappa Alpha, will present the individual award.

The question which the teams will debate is, "Resolved that the Federal Government should adopt a permanent program of price and wage control." The extemporaneous competition subject is, "How can we as a nation improve our ethical and moral conduct."

Committee Head

Committee running the tournament was headed by Spencer Palmer, debate manager, and Dr. LaVar Bateman, debate coach.

Cast Revealed For January Play Offering

Casting has been completed for the January performances of "John Loves Mary," gay comedy by Norman Krasna, it has been announced by Morris Clinger, director.

Featured in the title roles of this story of a young World War II veteran who comes home to his sweetheart, bringing a wife for his best friend who is already married, are Keith Orme as John Lawrence, and Joyce Sommerlade as Mary McKinley.

The part of Fred Taylor, the friend, will be taken by Wesley Craig, while Barbara Hall will portray Lily Herbish, the "other woman."

Mary's parents, Senator and Mrs. McKinley, will be played by Wilford Smith and Alice Brady. Others in the cast include Nanette Crow as Miss Beechwood, the Red Cross worker; Jack Roberts as General Biddle; Ned Hoopes as Oscar, the elevator operator; and Jim Fife as O'Leary.

The play will be presented the week of January 22 in College Hall, said Mr. Clinger.

SENIORS PLAN STUDENT BALL FRIDAY NIGHT

The Sno-Ball, sponsored by the Senior class, is scheduled for the Social Hall tomorrow at 9 p.m., according to Lee Stratford, senior class president.

A heels and hose affair, the price will be 75 cents per couple. Music will be by Ardean Watts' orchestra.

Senior class committee members in charge of arrangements include Barbara Budge, chairman; Bill Nichols, decorations; Betty Martini, publicity; Kathleen Larson, refreshments; and Barbara Smith, intermission.

The weekend affair was planned on short notice, having not been included in the regular social calendar scheduled earlier in the year by Darcy Clawson.

Chambers Elected IOC Head As Campbell Quits Prexy Post

Bob Chambers was elected president of the Inter-Organizational Council Monday following the resignation of Rolan Campbell.

Mr. Chambers is a representative of the a cappella choir to the body. Mr. Campbell resigned the post of IOC executive after recently relinquishing his office as president of Alpha Chapter, Lambda Delta Sigma, whom he was representing on the council.

A growing surplus of Brigham Young University students as compared to the number of social units on campus prompted lengthy discussion for the council. According to reports given at the meeting the problem is particularly acute among the girls units.

Principal suggestion made before the council was that a moratorium on freshman rushing be imposed. The moratorium would provide that no freshman girl could join a unit this year.

Proponents of the plan felt that the moratorium could serve a two-fold purpose. First, the pressure on some of the units that claim to be unwieldy in size could be released. Second, such a plan would encourage the formation of new units.

In 1949 a similar moratorium arising from the same problem resulted in the formation of Knight Templars, To Kalon, and Ama Phi.

Although the problem has been a subject of debate for two sessions, no decision was reached. A definite ruling will be made at the next meeting, according to Mr. Chambers.

For the Second Time ...

Turner Film Is International Winner

Glen H. Turner again has captured the coveted Hyrum Percy Maxim memorial award, international top prize in amateur movie making.

An amateur photographer for only four and one-half years, he has entered the annual contest three times. He won the top award twice, a record equalled only once before by a contestant in the 26-year-old competition; placed in the top ten awards once; and is the only person ever to win the top awards on both 8 mm. and 16 mm. film. Mr. Turner is a member of the art department faculty.

"All of us here were very deeply stirred by the production cinematically, aesthetically, and emotionally; and for the present, certainly, it must take its place among the few truly great amateur film creations," James W. Moore, editor of Movie Maker's Mr. Turner's "In Fancy Free," the international prize winner.

The 600-foot color film is an amazing feat of trick filming which utilizes miniature sets with life-sized actors. Beauty was obtained from ordinary and useful things with emphasis on disproportionate size and abstract means of presenting the story line. Contrary to the usual procedure of motion picture making, the story line, music and dance movement were keyed to backgrounds that were photographically possible.

Talents of three, Brigham Young University departments, art, music, and physical education, went into cooperative effort to produce the film.

Dr. Leon Dallin of the music faculty wrote the music score for the film. This film is the fourth for which he has written original music in Utah and Hollywood. According to Mr. Turner, it is "a real thrill to have music that fits the picture perfectly, has no previous associations, and intensifies the timing, climaxes important phases of the film." Again contrary to usual procedure, the music was written after the film was made.

Norma Rae Arrington, of the women's physical education faculty worked out and produced the dance sequences. She is director of the BYU chapter of Orchesis, national dance organization. Dancing movements and interpretations were devised to fit specific background possibilities, Mr. Turner said.

Hyrum Percy Maxim founded the Amateur Cinema League, a world-wide organization with headquarters in New York City. Motion pictures from all over the world are entered each year in the contest.

Mr. and Mrs. Turner are leaving Saturday, via New York, for the first formal showing of the film before the Hartford Cinema club, home club of Mr. Maxim, in Hartford, Conn.

TOP AMATEUR—Professor Glen Turner and Dr. Leon Dallin prepare showing of "In Fancy Free," which won international award. This is the second time Prof. Turner has received first place. Dr. Dallin composed musical score.

For A Happy New Year

We've been hearing much comment around campus regarding the fact that classes are slated to begin January 2. A major reason for the discussion is that it will require students to travel over the New Years holiday. Objections arise not entirely from a desire to be home on the first day of the New Year, but because this is one of the most dangerous times of the year to be on the highways. Since drivers of many cars will have celebrated unwisely the night before, they are potential menaces to other travelers.

We feel that, from the standpoint of safety, both parents and students would appreciate the postponement of beginning winter quarter until January 3. This would not cut down the time allotted for winter quarter because with pre-registration this year the two days ordinarily devoted to registering are eliminated.

Since finals have been scheduled from December 16-19 this cuts four more days from Christmas vacation. Inasmuch as Y students receive no time off between winter and spring quarters the time they have to spend at home over the holidays is doubly welcome.

We are bringing this matter to the attention of the administration in the hope that some adjustment can be made so that everyone may have a merry Christmas and a happy New Year with no accidents to mar the beginning of 1952.—C. J.

On The Other Hand Aspirins to Mars

by Mary Ann Carter

Imagine:

Nearly 7,000 aspirin tablets were issued to students from the campus drugstore in Missoula, Mont., this quarter.

Pharmacy seniors, supervised by instructors, manufacture the aspirin tablets as well as cough syrup and hand lotions in their very own laboratory. Of course, they must be assayed by the government before distribution.

Strictly Confidential:

If you can't make heads or tails of that extra sheet in the library book you just borrowed, don't worry. It's probably just a page of a secret document concerning national defense. Yep, it's possible. In fact, it actually happened in that deep dark dungeon up in Salt Lake. It seems that L. H. Kirkpatrick, the U. of U. librarian, was compelled to return the secret documents, however, when he received a letter from Roby B. Eastin, superintendent of documents of the United States. The letter demanded that the secret documents that were sent to the University Library by mistake be sent back to Washington, D. C. immediately. Kirkpatrick found the documents cleverly stashed away in the regular collection of important papers where any inmate of the university could have borrowed it without knowing in was secret.

Invasion from Mars:

The radio program that caused widespread panic along the eastern coast several years ago, "The Invasion from Mars" orated by Orson Welles, was presented at the University of Utah last Tuesday. As yet, as far as we have heard, no Salt Lake students have moved in on the B.Y. students, but there is still time.

BYU's Friendly Custodians

by Cal Pratt

The other night at the BYU-Arizona game, I was talking to Brother Delbert Brown, Fieldhouse custodian. I told him how it thrilled me to see such a crowd and how wonderful it was to have such a nice basketball floor of our own. Brother Brown agreed with me, but he added: "It thrills me even more on Tuesdays when it is filled with students attending devotionals."

I have thought since that little conversation what a wonderful group of men we have for custodians. I worked for Brother Brown in the Smith building two years ago, and found him to be one of the kindest men I ever knew.

Friendly Spirit

There are others just like him, Good old Brother Leigh Allred is one of them. He works down at the Fieldhouse now, too. And Brother Hewlett, the present Smith Building custodian—they're all swell. I've been to other universities and have generally found custodial staffs hard to get along with. They are usually cold and blunt, doing their jobs according to the letter of the law. But here, the "maintenance men" are just like everything else at BYU: friendly and good spirited.

The head of the whole affair is likeable Brother Leland Perry. Always an active Church worker, Brother Perry, when he led the singing Saturday, reminded me of the Savior's advice: "He that is greatest among you shall be your servant." He is on the East Provo Stake High Council, (former state president) and his personality is probably the key to his department's success.

Cheerful Kick

I can't walk past Buildings and Grounds Office without hearing a cheerful yell (or getting a "cheerful" kick) from Bob Halliwell, Mr. Perry's assistant. He's one of these real human guys that everyone likes. Yes, sir, he makes me grateful for being a part of BYU. He a High Councilman, too.

And on you go, right down the line—they're all that way. And the thing that's really amazing about it is that there is no department that has a worse job (a la traffic problems, etc.) but they smile through all the complaints and serve their best. I love them for it and hope this little expression of appreciation is universal among my fellow-grippers.

The Safety Valve

Everybody's Job ...

Dear Editor,

Tuesday morning's beautiful snowfall brought with it, besides a lot of frozen beauty, three inches of treacherously slick ice and snow. All those who drove their autos to school found that their faithful bucket of bolts behaved rather peculiarly and sometimes refused to obey at all. Monday night a car loaded with girls overturned on the hill by the Smith building because of the slick roads and the inexperience of the driver. It's a wonder of wonders that there are not more of the same kind of accidents when we consider the number of cars operating on campus.

Safety should be the order of the day on a slick wintry day. It wouldn't take much to mash up that beautiful limousine of yours and put it in the junk heap. You say that this doesn't concern you? SAFETY IS EVERYBODY'S JOB. As an example, let me point out an instance which occurred on Tuesday morning. Dr. John R. Bourne, Student Health Service physician, was coming to work through the fluffy white stuff early in the morning. At he approached the front steps of the Health Center, he saw the steps were caked with ice and snow, and upon attempting to climb them found them dangerously slick. To prove the point that "SAFETY IS EVERYBODY'S JOB," Dr. Bourne, upon getting a shovel to get a shovel to clean off the steps. But the shovel was frozen down in the trunk of the car and could not be dislodged. Undaunted, Dr. Bourne then obtained a steel waste basket, and with this cumbersome article, scraped the snow off the steps. Yes, SAFETY IS EVERYBODY'S JOB.

Same Old Tricks ...

Dear Editor,

At the concert last Wednesday night, by the Utah State Symphony, we noticed BYU students pulling their same neat little tricks of concert behavior. Talking, reading, studying their lessons, knitting weren't enough; this time they had to sleep!

We realize that with our classes, the home work that the professors put on us, our extracurricular activities, and social affairs, we are left a bit weary, to say the least, BUT this is no excuse to sleep in a concert! Especially when the auditorium lights are left on, so that the performers may see you sleeping. We can't think of anything that could possibly be more inspiring; or that urges the artist to give his best, than to perform before a sleeping audience.

Another inspiring sight that came to our attention was the romantically inclined couple in front of us. He stroked her hair; she laid her head on his shoulder; he put his arm around her; he tweaked her ear. Wasn't that tender? (The bottom of the mountain is to the east, and the lake is to the west of the J. S. building!)

Forensic Fallacy ...

Dear Editor:

I wish to take exception to a portion of Mr. Paulson's article which appeared in last Tuesday's issue. Mr. Paulson would have us believe that the debate coaches are frantically searching for material, while in reality, they are not anxious at all.

The fact is that some students on campus (myself among them) would like to participate in forensic activities, but don't have the time to enter all of them. To take my personal case: I asked Dr. Bateman if I could enter the extempore only, since I hadn't enough time to debate. He told me that I could enter extempore if I would debate alone. He also said that, even if I were the best qualified to participate in extempore, I would be the last one chosen to go on trips as a representative of BYU unless I was a debater as well.

He would love to have me in both, but ...

I can see why the powers that be would rather have someone who can devote practically all their time to forensics, but when they turn down someone who is at least willing to do what they have time for, I don't think they are justified in screaming about student indifference.

I think that speech activities are a worthwhile activity and worthy of our support, but let's face reality and make the best of existing conditions. Let's allow many persons to help a little, rather than have no one help a lot.

Christmas Contribution Deadline Announced

The last days are here—for turning in items for the annual Christmas Fund drive, that is!

Tomorrow at 5 p.m. is the absolute deadline for contributions, according to Don Van Sloaten, Los Angeles, general chairman of the AMS-AWS sponsored drive. All organization chairmen who have not already done so are urged to bring their group's donations to room 165, Physical Science building immediately.

Students who have not already been contacted, or who wish to donate more items, are urged to look through their belongings tonight for usable items, which may either be dropped in the box under the Christmas tree in the Joseph Smith lobby or turned in at room 165, between 12-1 and 4-5 p.m.

Ama Phi Commended

According to Mr. Van Sloaten, members of Ama Phi social unit are especially commended on the work they did in the drive. With a membership of only six girls, more than 200 per cent of their quota was turned in.

Room 165 is expected to bear a strong resemblance to Santa's workshop on Saturday when Doris Rasband, Washington, D. C., and her co-workers begin packaging the items. The crew is already at work repairing toys for the drive.

Since children's clothing and toys have been especially hard items to procure, drives were sponsored in all Provo grade schools to supplement the contributions of BYU students.

Mat Dance Aids

Also assisting in swelling the fund was Tuesday's mat dance, sponsored by the Christmas committee, which provided many non-perishable food items for the drive. Helen Ash, Springville, was chairman of the dance.

Approximately 350 families, designated as needy by the Utah County Welfare Board, will be helped to have a merrier Christmas as a result of the drive, Mr. Van Sloaten said.

BANYAN SLATES FACULTY SNAPS

New faculty members and those who want new pictures in the 1951-52 edition of the yearbook should contact the Banyan office immediately.

Pictures will be taken next week. Photo studio hours are 10-11 a.m. on Monday, Wednesday and Friday; 9:30-10:30 a.m. on Tuesday and Thursday; and 2:30-3:30 p.m. daily.

Special times can be arranged for any faculty member who cannot meet this schedule.

EDWIN STEFFE
... Final Fall Lyceum.

Program Released For Final Concert Of Autumn Series

Edwin Steffe, American baritone, will appear at the Provo tabernacle Friday at 8:15 p.m. in connection with the Brigham Young University-Provo Community Concert series.

Assisting Mr. Steffe at tomorrow's concert will be Stanton Carter at the piano. The program will include the well-known "Toreador Song" from "Carmen" by Bizet, and a variety of numbers by Strauss, Grieg, and Schubert, to be climaxed by "The Legend of Casey Jones." Mr. Carter will be heard in two piano solos, "Nocturne, A Minor" by Poulenc, and "Humoresque" by Rachmaninoff.

He has appeared as soloist with the Philadelphia Orchestra, Toronto Symphony, and the Washington National Symphony. 1951 marked the sixth consecutive summer Edwin Steffe sang major roles at the St. Louis Municipal Opera. He has sung repeatedly with the Bach Choir of Bethlehem, Penn., and has also made numerous radio and television appearances.

NAUTILUS

"Un Sospiro," or "A Sigh," one of Liszt's etudes, has been chosen as the theme for the Nautilus Invitational to be held Friday.

The City and County building will provide the setting, and music will be supplied by Bev Barry and his orchestra. Dress for the annual event is semi-formal.

Hosts for the affair were Chuck Turner, Tom Jones, and John Frame. Saturday they attended the BYU-Pepperdine game in a group. Alums present included Ed Parker, Nick Brusca, Dick Tannehill, Gordon Kirley, and Sam Isom.

Val Hyric also held a recent exchange party with Nautilus at the boathouse.

Randolph Scott Picture Classic Planned for Thursday Showing

"The Last of the Mohicans" is the film to be shown Thursday at 7 p.m. in the Joseph Smith auditorium.

The picture, starring Randolph Scott, Binnie Barnes, and Henry Wilcoxon, is an adaptation of the classic novel by James Fenimore Cooper. It is a tale of fast action, and life in the early days of the west.

Russian Film
The same evening there will be a Russian film, "The Stone Flower." It has English subtitles so that the plot may be followed without difficulty.

Awarded first prize for color films at the Cannes International Cinema Festival, this picture is photographed in a brilliant style which is not only unusual, but is also unique to an American audience, used to the softer tones of Hollywood technicolor.

Different Story
The story is also different from the usual trend of our movies. It is a folk tale of Russia, telling the story of a young stonecutter, Danila, who wants to create a perfect flower in stone.

The scene in which Danila is taken into the heart of the Copper Mountain, will startle even those hardened movie-goers who are used to deMille extravaganzas.

Late-day fashions modeled by Nautilus girls held the spotlight at Firmage's fashion show last night.

As seen in the picture, Marilyn Bennion shows us a theatre coat-dress of heavy black faille, styled with portrait collar, double-buttoned closing, and three-quarter cuffed sleeves. The skirt had a straight panel and gathered folds on the sides. Accessories were black faille bag, black suede lattice-work pumps, white fabric gloves, and a veil and feather trimmings forward-tilting hat of fur felt.

Lynn Jeppson wore another late-day costume of stiff black taffeta, in a dust-type dress trimmed with gold leaf print. The collarless dress had dolman sleeves with huge cuffs of the gold leaf. Accessories were in black.

Praxy Models

A soft rayon fallie dress in navy was modeled by NLU president, Bev Miller. The dress featured a wing collar accented with bands of white plaie, covered buttons down the front, and self-belt. The skirt of the dress was slightly pegged, with an unpressed, inverted pleat in front, and cuffed hip pockets. Bev completed this costume with navy and white accessories.

A black faille tunic suit was next seen on charming Joanna Hobbs. The skirt was a slim, darted affair with a front slit. The jacket had a roll collar, plunge neck, covered buttons and belt, and long, cuffed sleeves. Unpressed pleats in front and a straight back finished the tunic. Smart detail took the form of twin rhinestone buttoned tabs on the left side of the collar. Joanna chose her accessories in black.

Satin Costume

An "athome" costume of black satin trousers and an Eisenhower jacket of print rayon was worn by Connie Robinson. The trousers were cut straight and man-tailored. The jacket featured dange shoulders, a convertible collar, crystal buttons, long, full sleeves, and a gathered, tied waist.

Gerrie Anderson closed the show in a reversible outfit of red plaid on one side and bright corduroy on the other, in a waist and skirt duo. A white blouse, string gloves, and casual shoes completed this outfit.

National Science Group Announces Fellowships

The National Academy of Sciences has announced several large national fellowship programs for the academic year 1952-53. These fellowships are included in agricultural, biological, engineering, mathematical, medical and physical science fields at both the predoctoral and post doctoral level.

A large national program of predoctoral fellowships sponsored by the National Science Foundation is offered for the first time. These fellowships are open to anyone eligible to begin or continue graduate study during the 1952-53 academic year. The tenure of a fellowship is for one year and can be arranged to begin at any time after July 1, 1952, but must not be later than the beginning of the academic year of the institution of the Fellow's choice.

Applicants for these fellowships will be required to take a Fellowship Record Examination which will be administered on January 18, 1952. Stipends will range from $1400 to $1600 plus tuition and laboratory fees.

Applications for fellowships for the academic year 1952-53 must be received in the Fellowship Office of the National Research Council by January 7, 1952.

Electronics Fellowships
Predoctoral fellowships in electronics are also administered by the National Research Council, and are available to students who have completed one year of graduate training.

Postdoctoral fellowships are open to citizens of the United States who have completed all the academic requirements for the Ph.D., Sc.D., or M.D. degrees. Appointments are for one year with stipends from $3000 to $5000, and additional funds are available for travel.

Applications for the postdoctoral awards must be in the Fellowship office by the date specified by the individual Fellowship board. All these dates fall within January 1 and January 15, 1952.

Wide Subject Range
Because the postdoctoral fellowships are available in a large range of subjects and programs, potential applicants are encouraged to write to the National Research Council stating their field of specialization, age and study plans so that appropriate information may be sent. Information and application blanks may be secured for any of the programs by writing the Fellowship Office, National Research Council 2101 Constitution Avenue, Washington 25, D. C.

Results of Auditions For Opera Roles Listed by Weight

Results of auditions for leading roles in Puccini's opera, "La Boheme," have been announced by Prof. Newell B. Weight.

Brandt Curtis, Jay Fowles, and John Coray, are the three chosen as possibilities for the role of Rudolph. Howard Putnam and Howard Ruff will study the part of Marcel. The young seamstress, Mimi, will be portrayed by Marilyn Oakey, Dixie Mecham, or Derylis Rowe. Lou Rita Mattice and Helen Squire Madsen are cast in the role of Musetta. Schaunard will be played by Douglas Stott; Colline by Gene Hansen; Benoit by Virgil Camp; and Alcindoro by Don Watts.

The opera will be performed during winter quarter, and is being presented by the Opera Workshop. Work on stage sets, costumes, programs and publicity has already commenced.

Solomon Selected Snow Carnival Committee Head

Jim Solomon, Brigham Young University junior, was recently appointed chairman of the 1951 annual Snow Carnival which will be held at Timp Haven on Jan. 26.

The appointment was made by Sandy Walker, president of AMS, which is sponsoring the event. Mr. Solomon and Mr. Walker will choose various sub-chairmen for the affair.

The winter extravaganza will follow the usual program of skiing, skating, snow sculpturing, and other nippy low-temperature frolics.

"It's a big job that requires a masterful man," the AMS president expressed. "Jim will have the difficult task of removing the two-year-old jinx that produces hot sunny weather preceding the snow sculpturing contests," he added.

Fifth East Campus Entrance Closes to All Auto Traffic

The banning of vehicular traffic on the Fifth East entrance to Brigham Young University's upper campus was announced Wednesday by Leland M. Perry, superintendent of buildings and grounds.

With the concurrence of the Provo police department, the university has closed its private entrance portion of the street from the crest of the campus hill to the irrigation canal near the bottom of the hill. This will permit access from Eighth North to private property on Fifth East near the bottom of the hill, but will close the street to through traffic from Eighth North to the campus.

Increased pedestrian use of the road and the dangers caused by snow, ice or water on the steep road made the closing of the road necessary for safety considerations, Mr. Perry said. Large numbers of students have been using the road in walking to classes in the new Physical Science building since it was opened, he pointed out.

Fall Quarter Grads Must Re-apply For Graduate Work

All veterans who will graduate following fall quarter, but who wish to continue their education in the graduate school must apply for training at the veteran coordinator's office before the end of this quarter, according to Villa Olsen, veterans coordinator.

E. A. Littlefield of the Veterans Administration in Salt Lake City issued the following statement on the subject: "In the future when a veteran completes undergraduate or graduate training and he desires additional education before the completion of the particular undergraduate or graduate degree program in which he's enrolled, he must apply before the end of that quarter."

Auto Registration Supervision Switched to Dean of Students

The supervision of registration of automobiles at Brigham Young University has been transferred this week to the office of the Dean of Students. This change was recommended by the Special Services Committee and approved by the Deans' Council.

Provision was made also for the setting up of a Court of Appeals to which traffic violation cases may be appealed. This body will consist of a representative of the student executive council, a representative of the Dean of Students and a representative of the faculty at large, and will begin its functions at the first of the winter quarter.

To implement automobile registration and traffic control procedures, the superintendent of buildings and grounds was made a member of the Special Services committee and responsible to the Dean of Students in the enforcement of traffic regulations.

The Special Services recommended that automobile registration continue to be performed at the Buildings and Grounds office, room 30, North building, and that traffic fines be paid at the Treasurer's office as under existing regulations. They also recommend the increasing of cash fines to a minimum of $1.

Sports Scope Basketball Forecasting Contest by Ted Johnson

The Cougars from the Mountains are now on the prowl.

Last Saturday night, the Cats served notice that they were not to be taken lightly in their quest for the Skyline honors. Die-hards who still believe that the success of a ball club depends on a few 'great' players found themselves out on a limb after Saturday's game. The loss of 'Minnie' and 'Hutch' was supposed to hamper the Cougars more than just a little but it looked like the Cougar teams of old when the Pumas out-clawed Arizona in the fieldhouse opener.

I don't want to take anything from the reputation of Minnie and Mel, but I was very pleased how well their shoes were filled in the tussle last weekend. Mel, who operated in the center spot, usually came up with about 21 points. His average for the season was 15.4 points per game. It is interesting to note that the two men who alternated in the pivot spot, Jarman and Dunn, racked up a total of 21 points between them.

Minson, who nearly always tallied for around 20 points, was replaced by a charging 'Cat in the person of Joe Richey. Richey banged through for a neat 21 counters to lead the Y team in the scoring column. Jerry Romney also was in for a share of the points with sensational drives through the middle.

In a talk with Jerry Dillon, ace center for the Arizona club, after the ball game Saturday night, I learned that one of the reasons the Wildcats were caught napping is that they were expecting our center to play in the pivot position under the basket and when he pulled out and operated further out in the court, the Arizonians were caught unprepared. I say Coach Watts gets this credit.

Each week in the Thursday issue of the UNIVERSE in this column will appear a list of three outstanding basketball games to be played on Friday or Saturday night. These games will be picked on the basis of holding the most interest in Skyline Conference circles.

Here's what you do. Everyone on campus is eligible to enter one prediction of the exact score for each game on the list published every Thursday. The entries should be submitted to me personally or put in the ballot box on the counter at the east end of the bookstore. The entry should include the score predictions, the contestant's name, home town and Provo address and activity card number.

The deadline for all predictions is Friday night at 5 p.m. The three closest predictions will be named the winners of the weekly contest. Ten points will be awarded the closest entry and the next two closest will receive seven and four points respectively.

These points will be tabulated at the close of the season and the winner will be asked to be a guest writer on the Sports page of the UNIVERSE for one week. Also a prize will be awarded to the winning individual.

Each Thursday, watch for the names of the winners, the final scores for the games and the list of games for the following contest.

In this contest I expect to stimulate readership of the sports page and to create more interest in the BYU team and their opponents. To be able to accurately predict the scores each week, it will help to know some of the details of the opposing teams. Therefore, I urge everyone's participation in this contest. It is not restricted to students. The faculty is invited to participate.

Here are the games to be considered in this week's contest. (1) Brigham Young University vs. Niagara University, Saturday night in Buffalo, N. Y. (2) University of Utah vs. Oregon University at Eugene, Ore. (Predict the score for Saturday's game only.) (3) Wyoming University vs. Montana State. Predict the score for Saturday's game which will be played in Worland, Wyo. Good luck.

Oversized Pied Pipers Lead Cougars To 72-60 Defeat; Cats In Garden Tonight

by Dan Clay

Brigham Young opened its eastern tour Monday night and although outrunning and out-hustling their opponents, the Cougars could not make up for the overwhelming height advantage enjoyed by the Pied Pipers. The tremendous rebounding ability of Hamline brought them victory.

A quick look at the size of Hamline's three top scorers will tell the story. Dave Hegna, who hit for 20 points, is 6-7; Dave Pritsche, who garnered 19, is 6-8; and Lloyd Thorgaard, who notched 18, is 6-3.

On the other hand, Joe Richey put on an outstanding show as he hung up 22 points, on 11 field goals, before leaving the game in the fourth quarter, via five personal.

In the Monday night game, the Cougars could not make up for the overwhelming height advantage enjoyed by the Pied Pipers. The tremendous rebounding ability of Hamline brought them victory.

A quick look at the size of Hamline's three top scorers will tell the story. Dave Hegna, who hit for 20 points, is 6-7; Dave Pritsche, who garnered 19, is 6-8; and Lloyd Thorgaard, who notched 18, is 6-3.

On the other hand, Joe Richey put on an outstanding show as he hung up 22 points, on 11 field goals, before leaving the game in the fourth quarter, via five personal.

The Cougars trailed 8-0 and 10-1 before their offense got rolling. Fighting back, they brought the score to a five point deficit, 17-12, at the end of the first quarter.

Cats Never Ahead
In the second period, BYU drew to within one point of Hamline but that was the best they could do in the first half. With the score 31-27 for Hamline, Gussner dropped a desperation heave that eventually haunted the Cats during the rest of the game.

Trailing 46-39 in the third quarter, the Cats put on a rally and trailed by only two points, 47-45, going into the final period. All six points were scored by Joe Richey.

In the last quarter the Cougars finally tied up the game at 49 but four Hamline free throws and a field goal put them ahead to stay. Here, the Cats rallied again and fought back to 56-55. A foul shot by Thorgaard and field goals by Gussner and Hegna put the game on ice for the Pied Pipers.

Stan Watts In Third Year; Hailed As Great Coach

by Al Halverson

"Basketball at Brigham Young University is in a building cycle," states head basketball coach Stan Watts, who is now in his fifth year of coaching at the Y.

Watts figured in this cycle years ago when he attended BYU as a student. He distinguished himself then by winning letters in football, basketball and track during both his junior and senior years.

Playing gave way to coaching of varsity play. He was at the athletic helm of Millard and Jordan high schools as well as Dixie College. One need only go to the statistics file to ascertain the calibre and prominence of his outstanding teams.

Was Main Cog
Stan Watts was apparently destined to be a main cog in the machinery to build bigger and better teams. The year 1947 found him back at BYU as frosh coach in football and basketball and head coach in baseball.

The next year the building cycle was advanced rapidly, and so was the name Watts who by now held the reins of assistant coach in basketball and football.

In 1949, Floyd Millet, then head coach at the Y, resigned his coaching job to enter private business, and the logical successor was Stan Watts. He reached the pinnacle of the BYU coaching staff.

In the three years that the head coach's office door has borne the name of Stan Watts, BYU has won two conference championships and one national title.

Starts New Cycle
With the loss of Al Hutchins, Hutchins and Minson. Watts again is starting a new building cycle.

"If we land fourth place in the conference we'll be lucky," said the coach.

When asked who he thought would cop the conference bacon, Watts declared, "Wyoming should win the conference this year, and possibly Utah and Denver have a chance."

Mentor Watts displayed no overtone of pessimism over his charges. With Romney being the only man who won't return next year, Watts feels certain that next year's team will definitely be stronger.

Another Advantage
Another advantage for the Cougar cagers is the new million dollar fieldhouse. Springfield High's court remains but a bad dream in the minds of cougar fans at the Y. "The spacious new home floor gives us opportunity to develop our freshmen," exclaimed Watts.

Minson's and Hutchins' big "brogans" will be hard to fill, but Coach Watts has potentials Tom Karren, Dean Larsen, as forwards, and Boyd Jarman, Loren Dunn, Max Bond, and frosh Mike Macellan at the center post.

BYU has one of its toughest pre-season and seasonal schedules. Will the Cougars make another NIT jaunt back to Madison Square Garden this year is a question in the minds of many.

"Many think that our NIT victory last year automatically assure us a berth in the invitational playoff," answered Watts, "but this is not the case. If we have a good record this year we will probably receive another NIT bid."

Winter Murals Get Underway After Holidays

Men's winter quarter intramural sports will get underway with the first after the quarter begins, according to Coach Clarence F. Robinson, head of intramural sports.

There is a large variety of sports offered next quarter, including squash, basketball, bowling, volleyball, handball, wrestling and boxing. There will be social unit competition in basketball, bowling, and volleyball. Independent teams or individuals can enter any of the various sports.

Any basketball team that plans to enter in intramural competition can now schedule any of the three gyms, from 3-5 p.m. every day, for one hour only, by calling secretary of the Phys. Ed. department.

Wrestling and boxing, which were regularly scheduled for autumn quarter, were postponed because gymnasiums were not completed. It was announced that competition would begin about two weeks after the Christmas holiday. Any student registered at BYU is eligible to compete except winners of the AAU, Golden Gloves or members of the wrestling teams.

Entries for bowling should be turned in before Jan. 4 to be eligible for competition. All competition will be held at Regal Bowling alley. There will be special rates for teams competing. Each team member will be given his shoes and two lines for 45 cents.

Entries for squash should be turned in before Jan. 4. Opening game will be Jan. 7. Volleyball teams should have their entries in before March 22. Handball's closing date for entries is Feb. 15.

All entries should be turned to Coach Robison's office anytime before the closing date.

Stan Watts In Third Year

When confronted with a question on recent basketball scandals in the East, Watts quickly admitted that the scandal had hurt the game, but he added that BYU was never approached when they were in the East. The boys could make no outgoing calls and could receive no calls.

"Our clean-appearing boys have always been treated well in New York. Their only complaint was the tobacco smoke. It's hard on the players, especially in the second game," said the coach.

The BYU cagers, according to the New York Times, are known for their practice of praying in the dressing room before the opening of every game. "This idea," exclaimed Watts proudly, "was suggested by the players themselves. I find it gives unity and oneness in purpose."

But a lot of the credit for this unity and oneness in purpose goes to Watts himself. As one player put it, "The team thinks Watts is tops and will take his advice and word as law. He is the best coach I have ever played under."

"Last year's team traveled over 40,000 miles and appeared before 285,000 people; that's a lot of publicity," says Watts.
